Apricot Blossom Festival Ladakh For 6 D / 5 N

Overview

The Apricot Festival is a celebration of the apricot fruit, its cultural significance, and local traditions. These festivals take place in various regions worldwide, including California (USA), Ladakh (India), and Armenia. They feature events like food tastings, apricot blossom viewings, art fairs, music, and community activities. Some, like the Golden Apricot Yerevan International Film Festival, focus on arts and cinema while honoring Armenia's national fruit. Others, such as the Patterson Apricot Fiesta, highlight farming heritage with parades and pie-eating contests. These festivals bring communities together to enjoy the seasonal beauty and delicious flavors of apricots.

Daywise Itinerary

Day 1 Arrival in Leh

Board your early morning flight to Leh. Leh (Ladakh) is the largest province within the North Indian State of Jammu and Kashmir, covering approximately 60,000 square miles (100,000 sq. km). It is surrounded and bisected by some of the highest mountain ranges in the world. On your arrival at Leh, a Ladakhi representative will meet, greet, assist and transfer you to your hotel in Leh. Since you are arriving at 11000 ft, we strongly recommend to take complete rest on the first half day where you should not indulge yourself in any strenuous activity. Dinner and overnight in the hotel.
